

ABSTRACT

Dividen policy becomes the most important for investor. Dividen policy can be used as hint or indicator of company's finance condition. Which is the company in profil condition or visa versa. Dividen policy it self can be influenced by several factors such as profibility, liquidity, leverage, firm size and company growth. The aim of this research is to exposes the influence of profibility, liquidity, leverage, firm size and company growth toward manufacture company's dividen policy where exist in stock exchange.

Population in this research is manufacture company in Indonesia's stock exchange in 2011-2014. The sampelling technique which being used is purpose sampling and achieved 55 companies. The data of analysis technique is to use double linier regretion test. The result of hypothesis showed that profibility, leverage, and firm size influenced significantly toward dividen policy. On the other hand, liquidity and company growth did not influence significantly toward dividen policy.

Keyword : Profitability, Likuidity, Leverage, Size, Growth, Dividen