In the last few years, people have been thinking about global integration. They thought that globalization was a rational choice for the future of human being. They have said the world was becoming more globalized. They believed deterritorialization as a core of globalization was prosperous. Actually, globalization term was first coined (originated) in the 1980's, but the concept was drawn up decades ago, this is why people would say that the world was globalized 100 or more years ago as it is today. Absolutely, one of the most particular areas effected by globalization is economy. It refers to the process to removed of national economy in to a global economy. Most of the people thought the only way to do that is liberalization. It is belong to how eliminated all of nation borders. It is not easy, definitely.

Then the Fungtionalist have had an idea about the manner of nation to reach global integration. It is called regionalization. European Union was the most of progressive sample of regionalization. European Union was getting bigger, even it has a different condition of member. Economics, politics, laws and social cultures were facilitated by suprastructure. It was seem regionalization is effectif for the nation before they go to the global integration. There is two fact about European Union, EU is reach (its belong to the member of EU) the other, EU has a more complecs cooperation than before. After white paper act had been launching, there was not regulation. That facts can motivated anather countries to build supranational (regionalization) with the same way when European built their system. They going to international integration (and of course to global integration). But wherever, globalization is dialectical process, it is not linear process. That is something problem with a 'gap' betwen member. That's time for the government to protect their people (supranational) they must give some policy in some condition as regulator al though
