1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated September 17, 1787. It is a very important document, as it sets out the reasons for the creation of the Constitution and the powers of the new government.

2. The second part of the document is the Constitution itself, which is divided into seven articles. Article I deals with the legislative branch, Article II with the executive branch, and Article III with the judicial branch. The remaining four articles deal with the structure of the government and the rights of the states.

3. The third part of the document is the Declaration of Independence, which was adopted by the Continental Congress on July 4, 1776. It is a statement of the reasons for the American colonies' separation from Great Britain, and it is one of the most important documents in American history.

4. The fourth part of the document is the Bill of Rights, which consists of the first ten amendments to the Constitution. It was adopted by the Congress on September 12, 1791, and it guarantees certain fundamental rights to the citizens of the United States.

5. The fifth part of the document is the Preamble to the Constitution, which is the opening sentence of the Constitution. It states the purpose of the Constitution and the powers of the government.

6. The sixth part of the document is the Declaration of Sentiments, which was adopted by the Seneca Falls Convention in 1848. It is a statement of the rights and wrongs of the women of the United States, and it is one of the most important documents in the history of the women's rights movement.
